Dear Bernice

Ofsted research project about fostering respect for different sexualities and genders

Thank you very much for your contribution to Ofsted's research on how schools foster respect for different sexualities and genders. Please pass on our sincere thanks to your staff, governing body and pupils for their participation in the project. We both very much enjoyed working alongside you.

The visit provided a very valuable insight into how your school promotes respect for the two protected characteristics of sexuality and gender. This information will contribute to our national evaluation and reporting on the theme of promoting equality in schools. Any published report we prepare is likely to list the names of the contributing schools, although individual schools will not be identified in the main text without consent. We expect to publish our final report in the autumn term 2019.

Again, many thanks for supporting Ofsted in the collection of evidence and data for this study, and also for the ways in which everyone made us feel welcome and helped to facilitate the day.

Yours sincerely
